The Environmental Information Regulations (EIR) 2004 apply to Falmouth Harbour Commissioners. The regulations implement the European Council Directive 2003/4/CE on public access to environmental information.

The principle behind the law is giving the public access to environmental information will encourage greater awareness of issues that affect the environment.

To fulfil our obligations under the regulations we will:

- Make environmental information available proactively on our website; and
- Respond to members of the public when they request environmental information held by us.

FHC make information that we hold on the environment available through our website, please review the environmental pages (particularly the 'useful information' page) where we have listed the environmental information that we hold.

If you cannot find what you are looking for and think that Falmouth Harbour Commissioners should be able to provide this information. Please send a request to Vicki Spooner - eqsm@falmouthport.co.uk or call on 01326 213537.

Please note that we may not be able to disclose some information for reasons described in regulation 12 of the EIR Rgulations.

Further information on the Environmental Information Regulations 2004 is available from the Information Commissioners Office <https://ico.org.uk/for-the-public/official-information/> or call on 0303 123 1113.
